Preferred Vendor Programs

Love 'em or Dump 'em?

It's the mock trial of the century for insurance restoration contractors.

The Prosecution: Lakewood, CO Chief Municipal Prosecutor Jennifer Roth

Position: Preferred Vendor Programs restrict free enterprise, encourage cheap work and exploit special interests when insurers push property owners to firms that have special agreements with the company.

The Defense: Attorney Andrew Peterson of Denver, CO, who specializes in insurance defense litigation.

Position: Preferred Vendor Programs protect property owners and insurance companies from firms that might do inferior work or over-charge for their services.
